ABSTRACT

Methods and apparatus, including computer program products, implementing techniques for refreshing a transaction screen. The techniques include displaying a transaction screen containing data for a transaction, waiting to receive user input to the transaction screen, and automatically refreshing the screen with updated data if user input is not received within a pre-determined period of time.

5

50187951.doc